A BUG'S LIFE

CIRQUE DU SOLEIL PRESENTS OVO
Under the "Grand Chapiteau" on Fan Pier
Through August 29

If you're the type that spent happy childhood days watching the hard-working inhabitants of your very own ant farm or ran about in a field trying to catch fireflies, then the masterful performers of Cirque du Soleil have returned to Boston with the perfect show for you. Ovo transports audiences into a whole new world—as brightly colored and eye-poppingly imaginative as any previous Cirque show—where butterflies, ants, grasshoppers and other insects go about their daily business until their colony is disrupted by the arrival of a fly carrying an enormous, mysterious egg. What ensues is a light-hearted story full of romance, humor and, of course, Cirque du Soleil's trademark jaw-dropping acrobatics, amazing costumes and visually stunning set pieces. Believe the buzz—Ovo is not to be missed! Refer to listing, page 17. —Josh B. Wardrop

ROCK THE BOAT

2010 ROCK AND BLUES CRUISE SERIES
Departing from Long Wharf, Boston Harbor
August 6 & 7, 13, 19–21 & 27 at 8 p.m.

There's nothing worse than being marooned at sea on a boring booze cruise, held captive by some hack DJ's substandard music selection. This summer, keep your nautical good times from walking the metaphorical plank by hopping aboard a Rock and Blues Concert Cruise of Boston Harbor, where you can spend three hours cruising the coastline, dancing and rocking out to some of the area's top bands. Upcoming cruises boast entertainment from funk/disco act Booty Vortex (August 7), Celtic rockers Enter the Haggis (August 13, pictured), Virginia combo Carbon Leaf (August 19) and Beatles cover band extraordinaire Beatlejuice (August 20). Come join the fun aboard a cruise where it's not only okay to rock the boat, it's pretty much mandatory. Refer to listing, page 16. —Jaime Coyne

Cocktail of the Week

ELAINE'S RICKEY
Grendel's Den
89 Winthrop St.
617-491-1160

The raspberry lime rickey has been a non-alcoholic New England summertime staple for generations, but this summer, subterranean Cambridge eatery Grendel's Den—a Harvard Square fixture in its own right since 1971—is offering up a rickey with an extra kick. Elaine's Rickey, a combination of Svedka raspberry vodka, fresh lemonade and Monin raspberry syrup, is available at Grendel's as part of the Harvard Square Business Association's special "Think Pink, Drink Pink, Shop Pink!" Breast Cancer Awareness Campaign. Through August 31, restaurants, bakeries, bars and shops throughout the square are selling unique pink products, with a portion of proceeds going to battle breast cancer—which makes Elaine's Rickey the kind of refreshment that nourishes both body and soul.

Let's Eat Out

Panorama's perfect patio picks for dining al fresco by Josh B. Wardrop

BRUNCH, ANYONE?

Breakfast is the most important meal of the day—but it's summer, and you're probably on vacation, so sleep in a bit and head out to brunch instead. For those who want to start the day off with a fresh-air feast, prime options include: Vlora (refer to listing, page 66), which enhances its full menu of traditional breakfast favorites like pancakes and omelettes with Mediterranean offerings like vegetarian moussaka, spinach and feta pie, gnocchi, kebabs and more; The Friendly Toast (1 Kendall Square, Cambridge, 617-621-1200), a kitschy, retro-drenched eatery that serves brunch at all hours, allowing you to sit on the patio and enjoy creative, top-notch breakfast creations as you watch the sun come up or go down; and Tremont 647 (647 Tremont St., 617-266-4600), where guests are encouraged to "come as they are" to the restaurant's fun-filled Pajama Brunch, showing up in sleep attire to enjoy huevos rancheros, massive burgers and a full range of brunch cocktails on the patio.

SKIP THE PEANUTS AND CRACKER JACK

If the idea of overpriced Fenway Franks and watery beer at the Red Sox game doesn't exactly get you salivating, there are plenty of spots in the vicinity of Fenway Park where you can nosh on delicious grub in the open air and soak up pre-game excitement. The Cask 'N Flagon and Game On! (refer to listings, page 78) face each other on opposing corners of Brookline Avenue and Lansdowne Street, and both are beloved by Sox fans as prime spots to enjoy tasty treats like pizzas, sandwiches, appetizers and other pre-game chow on their spacious sidewalk patios as throngs of baseball fans stream into the park. Remember, though: no food fights—even if you do happen to see some Yankees fans.

Behind Fenway Park, on Boylston Street, the Fenway neighborhood welcomed two new eateries this spring. Basho (1330 Boylston St., 617-262-1338) is about as far away from traditional ballpark fare as you can get—this Japanese brasserie serves a full range of sushi, soups and Japanese entrees on its patio. Across the street, in the shadow of Fenway itself, is Jerry Remy's Sports Bar and Grill (1265 Boylston St., 617-236-7369), the Hub's newest hotspot for hardcore hardball fans. Remy's boasts both a front patio overlooking Boylston Street and a rear dining section with massive windows that, when opened at gametime, allow diners to hear the actual sounds of the game emanating from centerfield.

BEFORE THE CURTAIN GOES UP

You don't want to see a show on an empty stomach—nothing's likely to get the theater patron in the seat next to you more agitated than hearing your stomach rumble during their favorite number from West Side Story. Avoid embarrassment by first enjoying an outdoor meal at the aptly named Theatre Cafe (refer to listing, page 75), which serves up delicious American cuisine on a spacious outdoor patio located just a block away from the Charles Playhouse. Step across Charles Street to dine on tasty Chinese delicacies at P. F. Chang's (refer to listing, page 75) in the shadow of the eatery's impressive horse statues, or enjoy fresh salads, paninis and pasta while ensconced in a comfy couch on the patio at Boston's newest Italian eatery, Vapiano (191 Stuart St., 857-445-0236). If you're in a Provencal mood, sample exquisite French food a few doors down from the Colonial Theatre on the patio at Bistro du Midi (refer to listing, page 64), overlooking the picturesque Public Garden. And for seafood fans, Skipjack's (refer to listing, page 65) serves only the freshest and most delicious fried and grilled fish, shellfish and surf and turf combos on its pleasant patio just up the street from the Hub's popular Lyric Stage Company.

SOUTH OF THE BORDER

Let's face it: nobody is going to mistake Boston for Cancun anytime soon. But that doesn't mean that you can't enjoy some fantastic Mexican food here in the Hub. For those who feel like the only way to eat Mexican is with the warm sun beating down as you sip on a margarita, Boston offers some excellent Mexican eateries with patios perfect for a summer day. The Sunset Cantina (916 Commonwealth Ave., 617-731-8646) is a fine spot for getting together with friends to sample one of the restaurant's 112 varieties of tequila and its tasty Mexican fare on the cozy patio. Or for a more romantic setting, try Casa Romero (30 Gloucester St., 617-536-4341)—tucked away just off Newbury Street, Casa Romero's lovely outdoor brick-paved courtyard is an ideal place to steal away from it all and enjoy authentic, classic Mexican cuisine with the one you love.

PRIME PATIO PROPERTY: NEWBURY STREET

There's no better boulevard in the Hub for people-watching, with its always-entertaining blend of funky college kids and beautiful fashionistas that come there to shop. And there's no better way to people-watch than from a comfortable patio while sipping a cocktail or noshing on a delicious meal. From the 100-seat patio at Stephanie's on Newbury (190 Newbury St., 617-236-0990) that's as expansive and welcoming as the menu of top-notch comfort food, to the large front windows that open up and turn Sonsie (pictured above, refer to listing, page 65) from a swanky eatery into an upscale street café, Newbury abounds with great spots from which to look out on the world.

ALSO TRY: La Voile (261 Newbury St., 617-587-4200); Bouchee (159 Newbury St., 617-450-4343); Kashmir (279 Newbury St., 617-536-1695).

EATING IN PUB-LIC

When most of us think about enjoying casual cuisine and strong spirits at a neighborhood pub, we imagine some dark, oaky, smoky (though not in Boston, of course, thanks to its ban on smoking in restaurants) venue. However, there are plenty of friendly Hub pubs that bring beer-drinking and hearty fare out of the darkness and into the light, with patio seating at hotspots like Irish pub/restaurant The Kinsale (refer to listing, page 67), located just across from City Hall Plaza; fellow Celtic favorite Cuffs (Back Bay Hotel, 350 Stuart St., 617-266-7200), nestled amidst the hustle and bustle of the busy Back Bay; and Barlow's (refer to listing, page 72), which boasts a leafy green oasis in the heart of South Boston from which to serve its delicious array of sandwiches, entrees and appetizers.

ON THE WATER

Eating outside is a summertime treat, but nothing makes it feel more like summer than being able to enjoy a leisurely, delicious meal in a spot that overlooks a body of water. Boston's coastal location offers ample patio dining opportunities by Boston Harbor, but one of the most venerable and popular has to be a meal at The Barking Crab (88 Sleeper St., 617-426-2722), where patrons sit at picnic tables underneath a long tent overlooking the Harbor, enjoying heaping portions of fresh seafood and shellfish. Further inland, diners at the ever-popular Dante (refer to listing, page 34) can enjoy succulent Italian and Mediterranean cuisine while they watch the sunset over the Charles River. Or, if you prefer the South Beach cabana experience, recent Leather District arrival Splash Ultra Lounge & Burger Bar (150 Kneeland St., 617-426-6397) serves up cocktails and gourmet burgers by the pool on its swanky roof deck.

THE LIVING END

Few neighborhoods in Boston demonstrate the commitment to outside dining that the vibrant, culturally diverse South End does. Renowned as a top restaurant destination in its own right, in the summertime it's hard to take more than a couple of steps without finding a street-side café or French bistro that boasts a picturesque patio fit for enjoying a meal and soaking in the sights of this exciting neighborhood. Tremont Street is the epicenter, boasting top eateries like B&G Oysters, with its private sunken stone garden patio, the continually creative cuisine of Sibling Rivalry and French favorite Hamersley's Bistro. Refer to listings, page 74.

HIT THE TRAIL

Tens of thousands of people walk The Freedom Trail each year, visiting the sites where America was born. Things may have changed since the days of famed patriots like Paul Revere and Samuel Adams, but one thing certainly hasn't: walking 2.5 miles will help you work up an appetite. If you're walking The Freedom Trail, there's plenty of great spots along the way where you can stop for a meal and eat out on a patio taking in historic sites where liberty was born. Just across from the Old State House, the new hotspot Woodward Park (Ames Hotel, 1 Court St., 617-979-8200) serves delicious fare and cocktails. A few stops further down the Trail, Faneuil Hall Marketplace is home to numerous outdoor restaurants, including Dick's Last Resort (refer to listing, page 68), where diners can enjoy buckets of delicious no-frills grub and the antics of Dick's mouthy waitstaff. Finally, the Freedom Trail winds through the North End, where lovers of fine pastries and strong Italian coffee can sample the authentic European vibe of Graffiti Ristorante and Cafe (refer to listing, page 71). Ⓟ

PRIME PATIO PROPERTY: HARVARD SQUARE

It's a misnomer that everyone in this neighborhood associated with higher learning spends all their time huddled in a cubbyhole with their nose in a book. Cambridge's busiest neighborhood is packed full of lovely spots for outdoor dining, including the prodigious yet peaceful patio at Harvest (refer to listing, page 34) where fresh air and fresh ingredients go hand in hand, and the picturesque terrace—complete with barstool seating and mini-raw bar—found at the Charles Square outpost of super seafood standout Legal Sea Foods (pictured above, refer to listing, page 75).

ALSO TRY: OM (92 Winthrop St., 617-576-2800); Charlie's Beer Garden (10 Eliot St., 617-492-9646); Rialto (refer to listing, page 35).

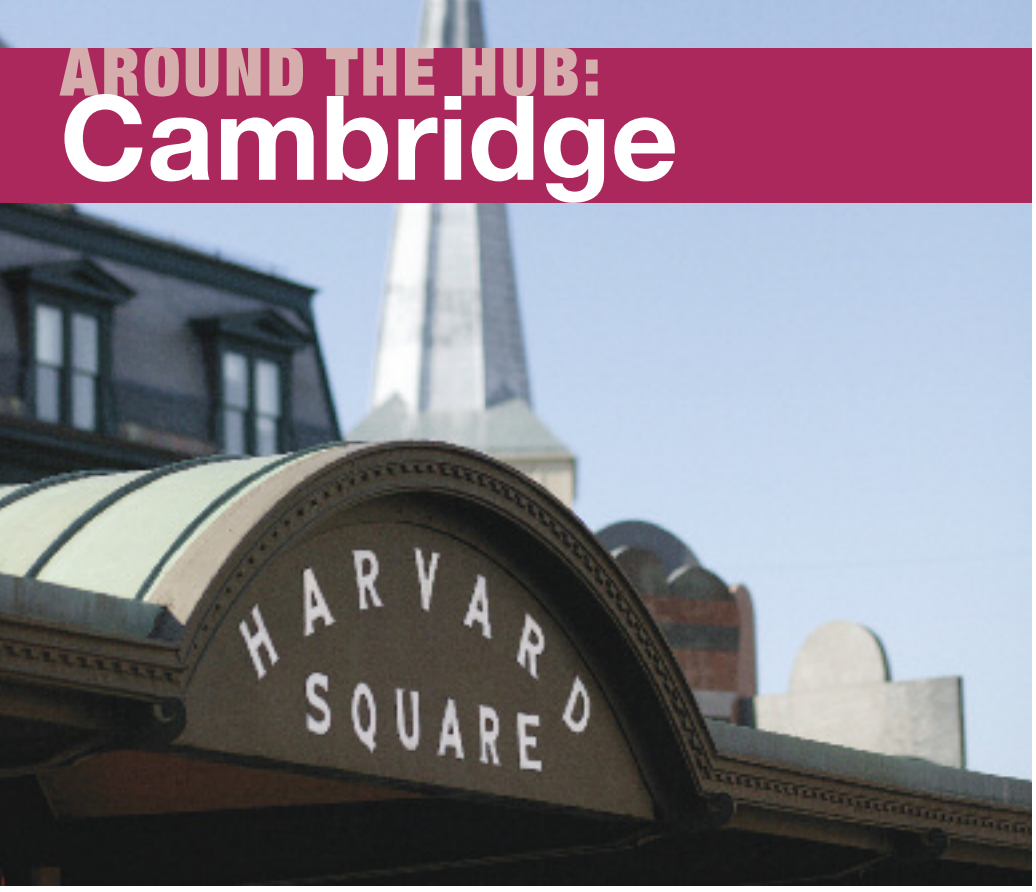
AROUND THE HUB: Cambridge



Square Deal

Just across the Charles River from Boston, Cambridge is a diverse and cosmopolitan city abounding with art, culture, fine dining and exceptional shopping. Yet, thanks to its division into "squares," Cambridge retains the feel of several small neighborhoods, each with its individual flair and style.

Central Square is the social center for Cambridge, with great restaurants, bars and music venues such as the Middle East Cafe, T.T. the Bear's Place and The Cantab Lounge.

Harvard Square is home to Harvard University's sprawling campus, including its associated theaters and museums. In addition, visitors flock to the neighborhood for a diverse range of shops, restaurants, coffee shops, bars and clubs that offer something to satisfy every taste.

The quieter, more residential Inman Square boasts ethnic food shops, bars and restaurants along with local and national jazz acts at Ryles Jazz Club.

Kendall Square, home to MIT and many bio-tech firms, is also host to foreign and independent films at Kendall Square Cinema.

Just beyond Harvard Square, Porter Square is full of eclectic second-hand shops and restaurants, as well as live music at the Lizard Lounge and Toad. Ⓟ

MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS

GARDNER MUSEUM

This neighborhood is best known for Fenway Park, home to our beloved Boston Red Sox, but its name actually comes from the Fens, the green parkland that winds its way through the area and makes up part of the famed Emerald Necklace. Nightclub dwellers should check out Lansdowne Street for dancing, sports bars and even a bowling alley, while Kenmore Square, famous for the Citgo sign, has become a bustling dining destination.

While the roar of the crowd at Red Sox games and the hubbub at nearby restaurants and bars grows louder each year, it doesn't overshadow The Fenway's status as a cultural mecca within Boston. The world-renowned Museum of Fine Arts resides on Huntington Avenue, and is the city's premier destination for viewing works of art from some of the most famous artists of all time. Also, the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum displays the collection of the wealthy philanthropist in a beautiful building complete with a garden courtyard. Classical music lovers can take abundant delight in the numerous performing ensembles housed in the Fens, including The Boston Conservatory, New England Conservatory, and most prominently, The Boston Symphony Orchestra and its home performance venue, Symphony Hall.
